

18:37:34 From Barbara Isely to David Finley(Privately) : Could we please see the speaker?

18:38:43 From Barbara Isely to David Finley(Privately) : I cannot understand without seeing the speaker or closed captions.

18:58:13 From Ruth Bowen to David Finley(Privately) : Check out these older movies: Sayanora with Marlon Brando and Bridge to the Sun. Both deal with cultural competence one post WW II, the other during WWII.

19:01:01 From Ruth Bowen to David Finley(Privately) : Cultural competence done wrong, white people cast as Native Americans.

19:03:07 From Ruth Bowen to David Finley(Privately) : Those two movies I suggested also deal with racism up front and personal with the characters.

19:12:53 From Chuck Rives : We have seen the push back... the Muslim Ban for example.

19:13:17 From Scott Peecksen : The team I work with at UNT is beginning to work more with faculty and staff to develop student engagement experiences focused on intercultural competence and we draw from this rubric to identify ways to measure intercultural competence in students during the semester.

19:13:19 From Scott Peecksen : <https://www.aacu.org/value/rubrics/intercultural-knowledge>

19:15:11 From Cole Martin : Thanks for sharing this!

19:15:17 From Kake Nations : Thanks, Scott!

19:19:08 From Susan Cooksey : Wish we could make that dialogue intergenerational.

19:20:14 From Ruth Bowen : Daughters of Abraham does the same thing Larry described. We share and we learn. The group is Muslim, Jewish and Christian.

19:22:19 From Ruth Bowen : Intercultural Development Inventory (IDI)

19:22:42 From Ruth Bowen : <http://idiinventory.com>

19:24:24 From Barbara Isely : 40 years ago in south India there was much acceptance of religious diversity. This was based on the Hindu acceptance of truth in all religions. Christians were not so accepting with aggressive insistence on their exclusive ownership of truth. Hindus have now learned intolerance from some Christians.

19:24:32 From Ruth Bowen : This is the focus of Truth and Reconciliation Commissions.

19:32:35 From Ruth Bowen : Cultural competence applies when we go to other parts of this country.

19:34:27 From Ruth Bowen : We need to offer grace to those new to this country or Denton. Adapting is a two way road.